Reviews

A high quality pdf as well as the typeface applied was exciting to see. It really is written in simple words and phrases rather than difficult to understand. You will not really feel monotony at any time of your time (that's what catalogs are for relating to in the event you question me).

Not illustrated. 1880 Excerpt: . . . of chemistry, so in this century, since the discovery of the indestructibility, transformability, and increatibility of energy, a regeneration of the fundamental theories of physics and of the exposition of natural science in general has taken place; natural science thereby has regained its connection with philosophy. On a secure basis, the fundamental theories of natural science may now be deduced, and the bond of unity is now entwined around the formerly disjoined branches. Natural science gains thereby daily in simplicity and depth, and the theory of the conservation of matter and energy is the safely guiding compass on the sea of perplexing, individual phenomena. And though the apothegm Into the inmost heart of nature enters no created mind still remains true, the veil is at least lifted which envelops that inner part of it. A UNIVERSAL METEOROGRAPH, DESIGNED FOR DETACHED OBSERVATORIES. By E. H. Von Baumauuhr, Permanent Secretary of the Society of Sciences of Holland, Haarlem. Translated from the French, by Clarrnce B. Young. Among the prize questions proposed by the Netherland Society of Sciences in 1870 were the two following: The society offers its gold medal and an additional premium of 300 florins for a satisfactory plan of raising meteorological instruments to a considerable elevation in the atmosphere, by means of kites or captive balloons, and of maintaining them there for at least twenty-four hours. The society offers its gold medal for a self-registering meteorological instrument--thermometer, barometer, or hygrometer--capable of being attached to a kite...
